INDUSTRY

- The Design has evolved over the years from being a mere function of styling or aesthetics to a process where design thinking is integrated into the development process.
- The number of new design companies is growing rapidly where the trend of designers opting to start their own setup can be witnessed.
- Multinational and Global corporations are focusing on India as a new market for trading their products / services which puts a spotlight on the design industry as never before.
- This growing industry thus requires skilled and capable designers who are able to meet the needs of the consumers and the rapidly growing market.
- It was recently estimated that jobs in the interior design industry are expected to increase on a global basis by at least 13% over the next decade.

- There is an upward surge in the interior design industry owing to the construction of a large number of multi-storey buildings, bungalows, offices, etc owing to rise in disposable incomes and standard of living of Indians.
- Projected that by 2030, India is on the road to become the world's third-largest construction market because of the bulk volume of building work going at present in the form of new homes, offices, residential societies, infrastructural upgrades, etc. The furniture market alone in India is currently worth around $8 billion.
- Innovative materials and technology have grown globally and Indian markets are ready to embrace these with open arms.

LEARN FROM THE EXPERTS

AR. ALHAD RAJEE

NAFDI is a wonderful enterprise & I am sure it will go a long way to enable young minds to realise their dreams in the field of interior design. As the industry keeps evolving, interior designers are redefining their roles in the professional world. NAFDI Programs are definitely going to help the youth to become future-ready Interior Designers.

AR. POONAM SAMANT

A need is felt constantly to fill in the void in education and the practical approach. NAFDI is one such institution that is doing a great job by bringing in the best industry practices into its Programs. The Interior Design industry has a range of specialized fields that go beyond simple design tasks of enhancing the quality and functionality of interior spaces. NAFDI is one of the best institutes for learning Interior Design, as it covers all the aspects of the Industry giving students a choice and inclination for various career opportunities.

AR. NEILESH KENKARE

We need to teach out of the box and advance techniques instead of archaic systems that are going on for years. NAFDI promises to be the out of box education provider with more experienced and professional faculty. I wish them all the best!

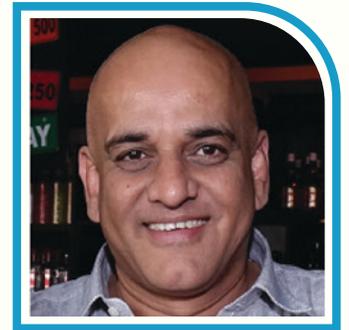

AR. SARITA S. MANJUNATH

In today's technologically progressive world, a larger portion of the public is exposed to various colour palettes and furniture aesthetics. This wide array of options can be put with one another by the same crowd for architectural projects for their own personal spaces serving its function and character. Needless to say, the technology by itself fails to teach this audience about the application of these range of aesthetics and colour palettes, and the right way to exploit the potential of each of these elements in different spaces. This is where NAFDI, the design institute, bridges this existing gap by curating design courses catering to students which automatically create better career opportunities for a successful future.

AR. UDAYAN BHATT

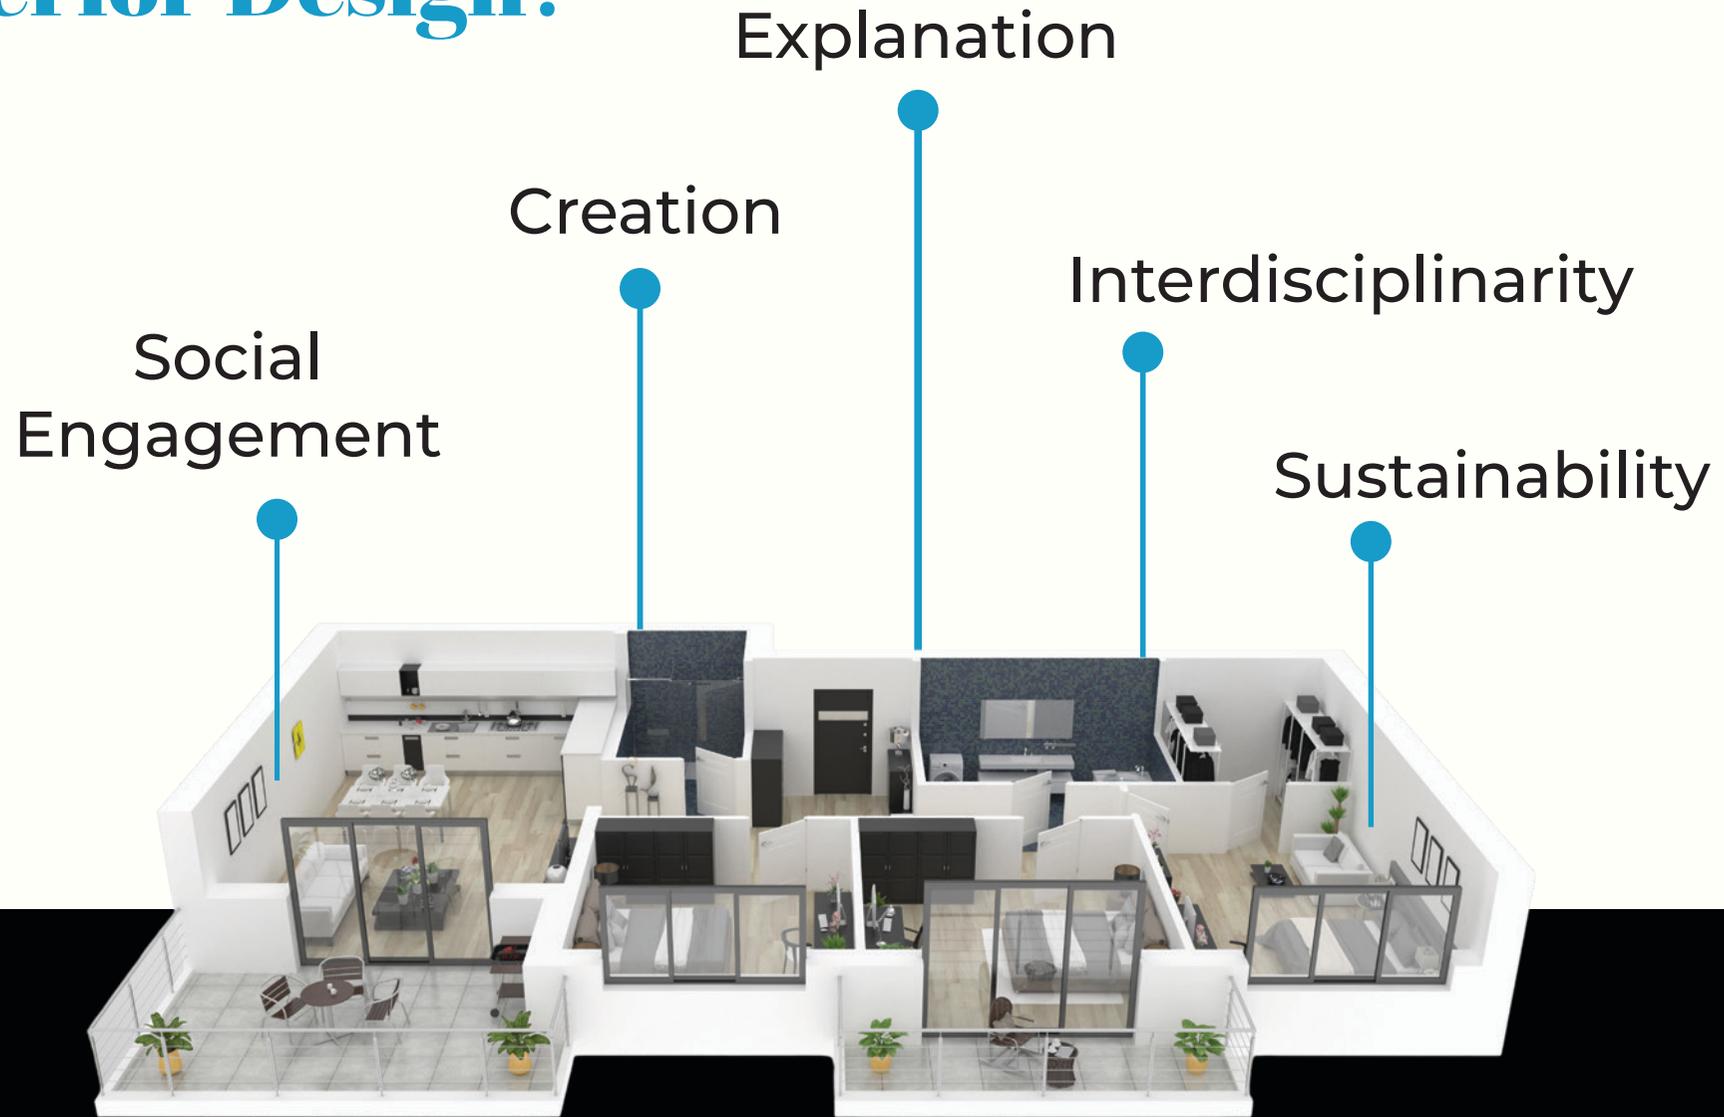

At NAFDI, Interior Design translates into 'Design driven by Inspiration.' NAFDI is one of the most sophisticated Institutes in India to collaborate with Universities and Colleges that offer Degree and Diploma courses in Interior Design and Interior Design Project Management. Identifying the current trends and needs of the Interior Design industry NAFDI's pedagogical methods are based on research and experiment backed design and advanced theories and techniques in the discipline of designing, drafting, project management, product design, furniture design, structural planning, etc., in the field of interior design and architecture. At NAFDI industry professionals engage in radical teaching methodologies that initiate exchange of ideas, fostering each and every individual's capacity and potential. Our vibrant campus boasts of state of the art amenities and resources and is aimed to harness development and bolster personal growth in students.

AR. KALHAN

Kalhan is an acclaimed architect known for disruptive, out of box thinking. He carries that instinct to all that matters to him and it's a wide range of interests in design, writing, communication, construction, education and technology.

2.0

College fest is an annual cultural event in a college organized by the student community, involving participants as well. It is a best way to learn teamwork, makes student culturally sensitive and most importantly teaches to achieve self planned goals.

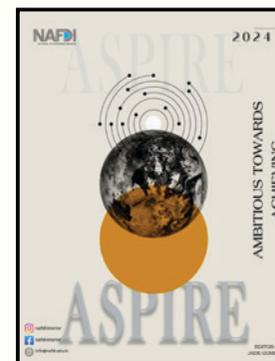

Cultural skills help students later in their career when they go out in search of a job. Their soft skills become an added value in getting hired by a company in campus placement or otherwise.

The students of NAFDI are determined to bring fresh perspective change towards society .

STUDENT MAGAZINE

Aspire, a student work magazine, provides an exciting outlet for students to display their literary and artistic talents. This platform allows students to express their thoughts and ideas, develop their skills, and receive recognition for their work. Moreover, the process of creating the magazine provides students with the chance to collaborate with each other, learn about teamwork, leadership, and time management, and improve their critical thinking skills.

Aspire also helps to foster a sense of community among students, encouraging them to build connections and relationships with their peers that can last well beyond their time in school. Overall, Aspire serves as a valuable tool for students to showcase their abilities and enhance their personal and academic growth.

CAREER PATH

As one of the top art and design schools in the country, NAFDI Interior School of Design ensures interior architecture and design graduates are prepared for a range of career opportunities. Our facilities, faculty, and hands-on learning approach are designed to provide learners with the tools they need to succeed in the industry.

Stage Set Designer

Set interior designers create scenic settings for the entertainment industry through designing and furnishing the interiors we see in the film, theatre, television, and advertising industries. This is referred to as creating atmospheres of scenes through interior design. The scope of service varies and may be as easy as designing the set for a stage play, or as complex as recreating locations like the interior of a ship or a great hall of a Gothic structure.

Building 3D Models

Building three-dimensional interior design models is a lucrative career that brings many benefits to consultants, clients, and the workforce. It helps to speed up the design process and fastens the decision-making procedure while helping to identify and subsequently solve potential design problems that may arise before project commencement.

Kitchen and Wardrobe Design Specialist

These are one of the top profitable niches in the residential design category and many designers work as kitchen and wardrobe design specialists and fitters. Proficiency in the use of CAD interior design software is required for layout planning, material selections, colour schemes, textures, lighting, storage solutions, and mechanical systems required for kitchen and wardrobe designs.

Hospitality Design

When a designer works strictly in the hospitality sector, they are, for instance, in charge of designing and constructing hotel lobby layouts, resort guest rooms, hotel restaurants, and related public spaces while considering guests' overall comfort and user-experience.

Institutional Interior Design

Institutional interior design involves in-depth programming, planning, design, and management of interior spaces used by public and private organisations and is based on the concept of "designing for the people first". An institution in this context can be anything from a hospital and school, to a museum, a residential care facility, religious building, or a courtroom structure.

Interior Design Educator

Teaching interior design is a route that some interior designers prefer, as it is a niche that is both profitable and delighting. Even practising designers who have extra time on their hands can teach in higher institutions. Interior design education can be through online courses, on-campus lecturing, and high schools. It is a great way to invest one's expertise where others would learn from.

Journalism

A career working as a journalist or writer involves writing articles for design magazines, blogs, journals, student's books, and electronic media publications.

Interior lighting design and consultancy

An important sub-category of interior design is the enhancement of interior spaces with both functional and aesthetically appealing lighting systems to help create an ambience and mood in any living space.

Commercial Interior Design

This niche involves consulting with prospective clients, designing and producing the design concept drawings, and supervising the tasks being implemented. Commercial projects cover restaurants, hotel interiors, bars, clubs, and other recreational.

Recording Studio Design

For interior designs, every project is unique, but the common factor is that space must be comforting and motivational besides being functional and aesthetically pleasing. In terms of design, what sells a studio goes beyond a good price and varying technical gear. It's the vibe and ambience that mostly sells a studio and this can only be achieved through a well-planned interior design concept.

Exhibit Design

Career exhibition designers create fixtures, fittings, and display stands for public (or private) exhibitions, conventions, trade shows, museums, art galleries, and other spaces that require themed attractions. This niche goes relatively unnoticed, but some interior designers work in it and are making good profits for their business.

Creative Painting

This career path is best for the artistically inclined interior designer that loves to sketch, paint, and illustrate. Working as a creative painter for interior walls and ceilings is lucrative because it is like selling art. Creative paint art techniques include stencilling, drip painting, faux wood and marbling, distressing, textured, and stamping.

CAD (Computer-Aided Design) Specialist

CAD software allows designers to create detailed and accurate floor plans, elevations, and 3D models, which can be used to visualize and plan spaces before they are built. This helps to ensure that the designs are functional and efficient.

Residential Interior Design

Residential interior plays a key role in creating functionalities and comfortable living spaces. A well-designed home should be aesthetically pleasing, but it should also meet the efficient and emotional needs of the people who live there. A residential interior designer will take into account factors such as the layout, lighting and materials of the space, along with the lifestyle and preferences of the homeowners, to create a home that is both beautiful and utilitarian.

STUDENT TESTIMONIALS
